Dear Mr. Jackson:

During my five years' experience as a special education teacher, I've introduced multiple class topics and activities that improved the school's special education program. I'm very interested in bringing that same spirit of continual improvement and student engagement to your school.

Your job posting caught my attention, particularly the request for a teacher who "knows and believes in the magic of the classroom." A dedicated special education teacher, I draw inspiration from the quote made famous by Christa McAuliffe: "I touch the future – I teach." I believe educators can give students formative learning experiences that motivate them toward a lifetime of personal growth. In my school's special education program, I've been able to work closely with students and parents to help address learning disabilities and find creative solutions. My skills in special education also include:

- Planning and delivering research-based interventions for students with autism spectrum disorders, dyslexia, and behavioral disorders
- Coordinating with psychologists, parents, and multidisciplinary teams to ensure safe learning environments
- Collaborating with classroom teachers and academic teams to develop and enhance the curriculum

I'd appreciate speaking with you further about how I can serve your school's special education program. Please call or email me to schedule an interview, and I'll look forward to possibly hearing from you soon. Thank you very much for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
