Dear Mr. Spencer,

Last year, I developed a groundbreaking application that matched users with the most appropriate health services for their symptoms, location, and needs. This application became one of the top five highest-reviewed iOS App Store downloads in 2023. I hope to help Humana provide similarly innovative solutions to help even more people access high-quality health care in 2024.

I find Humana's goal to provide tailored health care support that enhances its customers' physical and emotional well-being inspiring. My previous accomplishments and three years of experience in the sector make me an ideal addition to your team. Some of my proudest achievements include:

- Resolving a highly complex systems error in just two days that had been causing prolonged issues for clients
- Earning a commendation for my work on a patient collaboration project that led to the company's most lucrative software application of 2019
- Mentoring and training two recruits on .NET frameworks

I would be delighted to attend an interview to explain how my excellent technical abilities and strategic planning skills can help Humana's clients, and I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Melanie Alfaro
