Dear Mr. Smith,

I am the lead developer for six high-traffic e-commerce websites that currently have over 18 million active users. I have personally increased the company's profits by over 17%, and I am looking to improve on these figures at HMD International. I was also responsible for structuring and developing several internal software systems to track production workflow.

HMD International is planning to expand its e-commerce sector in the European market, and I have the expertise to help you achieve your goals. I am fluent in 13 programming languages.

Some of my past successes include:

- Developed two apps with my team that were rated at 4.8 stars on both Google Play and the AppStore
- Devised new help desk solutions that cut IT callouts by 27%
- Created a new production workflow tracking system that increased productivity by 21%.

I'd like to set up an interview time so that we can discuss how my past experience can help HMD International achieve its long-term goals. Please feel free to contact me with a time that suits your schedule.

Best Regards,

Simon Taylor
